GENERAL INFORMATION

1. Title: Alcohol and Chemosensory Perception in Human Twins – Twinsburg 2026 Data Collection and Testing
2. Background Information: The National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism (NIAAA), National Institutes of Health (NIH), conducts intramural clinical research to understand the sensory, genetic, and behavioral mechanisms underlying alcohol perception and alcohol-related health outcomes. Since 2019, NIAAA has collaborated with the Monell Chemical Senses Center on a multi-year human twin study examining taste, smell, and chemesthetic responses to ethanol and other sensory stimuli.

This research requires specialized chemosensory testing methods, proprietary sensory tools, and trained scientific staff capable of collecting high-quality data from twin participants during the annual Twinsburg Twin Festival. For the 2026 study cycle, NIAAA requires Monell to prepare testing materials, staff and execute on-site data collection, and deliver sensory, survey, and biospecimen data necessary to continue this ongoing research program.

The Sensory Science and Metabolism Unit (SenSMet), Division of Intramural Clinical and Biological Research (DICBR), NIAAA, is the sponsoring organization for this requirement.

Based on these factors, this is considered the only system reasonably available that meets all functional, operational, and cost criteria. Therefore, in accordance with FAR 13.106-1(b)(1)(i), this procurement is justified as a sole-source acquisition.
