

Draft 5-Year FFUP CLIN & Pricing Structure

Language Interpretation and Translation Services

Base period plus four 12-month option periods

CLIN Structure Notes

- Translation remains unit-priced by measurable output (per word) and should retain direction-specific language-pair pricing.
- Interpretation is structured as fixed event-based units: one initial interpretation assignment unit that includes up to 30 minutes of active preparation with the Government team plus live interpretation for a scheduled session up to 60 minutes, and each additional 15-minute increment specifically scheduled or ordered for the same assignment.
- The Government expects the vast majority of interpretation to be remote. A rare in-person interpretation event in Alaska may be required approximately once every other year. The Government requests industry feedback on whether separate remote and in-person interpretation pricing lines are commercially necessary.
- A separate travel CLIN is contemplated for preauthorized, actual, allowable travel costs incurred in direct support of the rare in-person Alaska event. Travel would be reimbursed in accordance with the Federal Travel Regulation (FTR) and would not be firm-fixed-unit-price.
- Cancellation charges, if retained in the final solicitation, are currently contemplated as a percentage of the scheduled interpretation service price rather than as separately priced CLINs. The Government requests industry feedback on whether that approach reflects customary commercial practice.
- For market research purposes only, the Government is considering annual evaluation quantities corresponding to an estimated annual spend of approximately $100,000 for each 12-month period. This draft does not establish a guaranteed amount or final contract ceiling.
