Draft Request for Proposal (80GSFC25R7005)
Questions and Answers 1-4

1. Why is the Government considering a Fixed Price contract type?

Executive Order 14271, "Ensuring Commercial, Cost-Effective Solutions in Federal Contracts," states, "It is the policy of my Administration that agencies shall procure commercially available products and services, including those that can be modified to fill agencies' needs, to the maximum extent practicable..."

2. Must the heritage channels be generated from hyperspectral data?

The Government prefers not to dictate implementation. The heritage channels can be generated from hyperspectral data. They can also be generated by an alternative design.

3. Will the Government release another Draft RFP?

The Government will provide updates on decisions as quickly as possible through amendments to this Draft RFP. Whether the implementation of these decisions is performed through another Draft RFP or Final RFP, the Government will factor in the time required to deliver a quality proposal given the updates.

4. Will a full funding profile be provided?

The current plan is to release a funding profile for the first three years to understand Industry Partners' best estimates for the contract's true cost while containing costs within near term limitations. That said, the Government welcomes and encourages feedback on the funding profile for those years. If an Industry Partner believes another funding profile is more realistic, please suggest this funding profile (along with rationale) in a one-on-one discussion and/or in the Draft RFP written response.
