1. Scope: Headquarters, U.S. Army Installations Command (IMCOM), in coordination with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers (USACE) Computer Aided Design (CAD)/Building Information Modeling (BIM) Technology Center (USACE's Technical Center of Expertise) is responsible for managing the U.S. Army portfolio of CAD and BIM software products produced by Bentley Systems, Incorporated (Bentley). This portfolio of software is used to support a number of Army-wide efforts requiring CAD, BIM, GIS and other related software applications.
2. Background: The Army has procured an Enterprise Public Sector 365 (EPS 365) Enterprise License Subscription (ELS) from Bentley since 2008. Bentley's ELS is a standard delivery offering for all commercial and government clients worldwide. Under the ELS, the entire Bentley catalog of eligible software is made available to the U.S. Army worldwide in unlimited quantities. The ELS allows Army users worldwide access to this suite of CAD/BIM engineering and design applications. These applications cover a wide variety of technical engineering and design efforts serving missions of organizations across the Army.

The Bentley ELS also includes SELECT coverage for all products accessed through the ELS program, which includes product updates and upgrades, and access to Bentley Technical Support for all ELS users.

The Bentley ELS includes a Bentley LEARN subscription, which provides:

- Unlimited live training in a virtual environment
- Unlimited On-Demand Training

3. Applicability: The Army ELS applies to all Army organizations and associated personnel including the Army National Guard and Reserves. This includes soldiers and civilians working for all Army organizations, as well as "embedded" contractors working directly on behalf of Army organizations as agents of the government. The ELS does not provide software for use by other government contractors as GFE (Government Furnished Equipment) unless agreed to in writing in advance by Bentley and the U.S. Army. ELS coverage does not extend to contractors hired for specific projects, including Architect-Engineer firms, design-build firms, and construction firms.
