IP083: Packaging, Marking, and Shipping of Metal Plating, Sheets, and other Metal Products

Metal plates, strips, sheets, bars, rods, angle stock, tubes, and pipe are to be packed for shipment as follows:

Plate, sheet, and strip must be packed in snug-fitting boxes reinforced with steel straps or in metal packs. Snug-fitting boxes are defined as fully enclosed rigid container having length, width, and depth.

Bar, rod, angle stock, pipe, and tube shall be packed in snug-fitting crates with solid wood ends or in boxes for protection. Snug-fitting crates are defined as a container of an open-frame construction.

Single pieces or bundles of steel stock must have a snug-fitting wood cap secured over each end.

Per DOD 4500.9-R, Defense Transportation Regulation (DTR), Part II, C, blocking and bracing is used to secure material in a container, on a skid, or in a conveyance (e.g., truck or railcar). Blocking is the use of cut pieces of dimensional lumber, typically fastened to the top deck of the structure or inside the container. Blocking is the used to provide a railing around the edge of the product to block the product in place to prevent shifting from side to side or front-to-back during transit. Bracing prevents the lateral movement of the product within the container. Braces are secured to the interior walls and at times to the inside top of the container. Per MIL-STD-2073 (latest version), unpreserved item(s) shall be protected from physical damage and mechanical malfunction. Cushioning materials, dunnage, blocking and bracing shall be applied as required to protect the item(s) and the enclosing media and restrict the movement of the item within the container. Per MIL-STD-147 (latest version), provides guidance on unitization and banding of unit loads, i.e. container consolidation, placement on pallet or load base, securly binding materials together.

NOTE: Vendors are responsible for ensuring all cargo tendered to an Air Mobility Command (AMC) is packed, marked, labeled, and documented in accordance with the DTR 4500.9-R, Part II. It's extremely important to follow DTR and AMC process. If the sheet metal is not properly unitized and secured, the AMC can reject the shipment and the vendor will be responsible for all additional charges incurred. A Supply Discrepancy Report (SDR) against the vendor for non-compliant unitization may be submitted. Submitted SDRs will generate a report in the Supplier Performance Risk System (SPRS) impacting the vendor's future acquisitions. NFM may request a picture of the material packaged to ensure compliance prior to issuing labels.
