1. Description of Need

The Whitney Genetics Laboratory participates in the Early Detection and Monitoring Program by providing metabarcoding analyses for samples collected in the Great Lakes basin. The program has been developed to aid FWS field offices and external partners detect aquatic invasive species more efficiently, and critical to the mission of the USFWS FAC program to manage aquatic invasive species (USFWS FAC Strategic Goal #3). It is essential that the lab follow established protocols to maintain data compatibility across two USFWS regions (Regions 3 & 5). As part of this program, the lab uses an Agilent TapeStation to assess quality control of samples as they are

2. Market Research Conducted

Market research has been conducted by staff at the Whitney Genetics Laboratory. There is no other machine that has a similar output to the Agilent TapeStation, and to maintain consistency, we need the same machine as the one already being used in the program.

3. Other Capable Sources

Agilent is the manufacturer of this equipment, but it is also available on GSA for a higher price.

4. Barriers to Competition

If there were a company that could meet the specifications outlined above, WGL would still need to perform additional laboratory validations, compare results against current performance, and would then need to perform additional cross-laboratory validations. This additional testing would significantly delay results of this mission critical project.

5. Contractor's Qualifications

We currently use the same piece of equipment and have had no issues with servicing or the quality of results from this manufacturer.

6. Determination of Fair and Reasonable Cost

We have worked with our sales representative from Agilent to procure a TapeStation at a discounted cost.

7. Recommendation and Certification by Program Office

Based on the above justification, I recommend this acquisition to be conducted using sole source acquisition procedures. I hereby certify that this justification is accurate and complete to the best of my knowledge and belief.
